Rep. Lewis of Maryland Prophesies That Business Will Go to Parcel Post.

ATTACK ON COMPANIES

Says That Farmers, by Newspool Advertising and Using Post, Could Save Money.

That the express companies within the next few years will be absorbed by the farcel post system was the prediction made yesterday by Representative David J. Lewis at Maryland, father of the original parcel post bill, in discussing the parcel post service within the 130-mile limit to become operative August 15. Representative Lewis declared that the beginning of the end of the express companies in America is near at hand. He stated that the parcel post would gradually absorb the small retail package business of the express companies until the latter's markin of profit had been wiped out, and they will be operating at a loss. Representative Lewis, who has made a careful study of the express companies, stated that more than 30 per cent of their gross revenues was derived from the transportation of small packages ranging tross revenues was derived from the transportation of small packages ranging parises in their briefs filed with the Internation of mail packages ranging and the profit of the fact that the express companies, and the pointed to the fact that the express companies are reduction in their tariff schedules contend that 4 per cent of their gross receipts represented their net earnings.

In support of his prediction that the express companies would be gradually absorbed by the parcel post be pointed out the lower rates offered by the government. He stated that with parvel post rates averaging from one-half to one-third lower than the express rates within 1% miles distances, he felt confident that the government will easily absorb more than 184,530 of the express companies gross business, which amounts to $168,000.

Representative Lewis added that the big surplus hold in reserve by the express companies is more than sufficient to pay off dollar for dollar for the amount originally invested in express stock, and that the etockholders will not suffer a Stray Dog Saves Towns.

Iowa City, Iowa, July 26.—A stray dog, sheltered for the night by a kindly man, saved the town of Downey from destruction by fire when it awakened its protector, Station Agent Plynn, who found a near-by store and factory ablaze. The two structures were destroyed, but Plynn aroused the town, and the citizens, improvising a fire brigade, saved the remainder of the village.

Indications Are Senate Will Pass Measure Before Adjournment.

HOUSE SITUATION CLEAR

Upper Branch May Cause Trouble but Administration Will Win in Lower Body.

With debate on the tariff bill now un-der way in the Senate, House leaders are making plans for the consideration of the administration banking and currency bill in the lower branch.

It is the purpose of the leaders to pass the banking bill in the House just about the time a vote is taken of the tariff bill in the Senate. Then, it is hoped, the Senate will buckle down to the consideration of banking reform while the tariff bill is being whipped into shape in conference. While the attitude of the Senate toward the banking bill has not been defined, as the body has been engrossed so far with other questiens. President Wilson and his advisers appear to be confident that the Senate can be induced to sit long enough to pass the banking bill.

Two Big Measures.

Two Big Measures.

The administration is proceeding on the theory that both the theiff and banking bills will be put into the form of law before this season of Congress comes to an end. This means a season that will run into the fall, and possibly project itself into the winter, but all concerned seemed to be bent on carrying out the administration program, although early in the year there was a god deal of opposition to the consideration at this time of any big legislation outside of the tariff.

position to the consideration at this time of any big legislation outside of the tariff.

It is the purpose of President Wilson and his advisers soon to begin acunding out sentiment in the Senate on the banking bill. The leaders believe that despite expressions made recently by Senators who are in authority that the President will be able to persuade the super branch to pass the hanking bill before adjournment. It is realized that certain features of the pending bill will encounter more formidable opposition in the Senate than in the House.

Owing to the tremendous Democratic majority it will be comparatifely easy to put the administration bill through the House. The leadership has indorsed the bill as it came from the President, and will be reported under the measure will be reported under the time of the louse Committee on Banking and Currency are overwhelmingly in the majority, and they are in a position at any jume to make a report. They have consented to the long drawn out discussion now in progress in order that the opposition might not be in a position to complain that the bill was jammed through without adequate debate in committee. However, just as soon as the leaders sive the word the bill will be reported, and taken up under a special rule limiting debate if the exigencies of the situation require such an extreme course. The leaders would prefer to pass the bill without recording to causus rule.

Discussion Rekward Teday.

Discussion Returned Today.

It already is apparent that no attention will be paid by either the House committee or the House itself to objections made by bankers to that feature of the pending till that gives the government supreme control over the new system of banks proposed to be created. If a fight is made to behalf of the bankers to give them more adequate representation on the Secteral reserve board it will be waged in the Senate. In that body it is possible for the hankers, acting through conservative Democratis and Republicans, to force the admitstration to compromise. Deficusion of the administration will be Discussion of the administration will be the House Commitment in the House Commitment of the House Commitment of the technique of the two being of the model of the week following, an agreement will be reached on the measure.
